

Anisha	I wasn't actually using the charts, but the background information of the program. Is there anyway to find where that came from?
MsCohen	Perhaps the program itself. I think the booklet covers those programs, no? I actually wrote a comment asking who wrote it. Haha. Maybe you can leave a comment asking what the sources are.
Anisha	Actually, can you re-send the booklet? I'm sorry, I clicked the link and it redirected in the same window that I'm in, so I got logged out of the chat and lost the link. But okay, I'll do that. Thanks 😊
MsCohen	here's the page it's on: http://www.innosightinstitute.org/blended_learning_models/
MsCohen	the white paper: The-Rise-of-K-12-Blended-Learning.pdf ⓘ
Anisha	oh okay, it's there, thank you!
MsCohen	great, I'm glad that worked out 😊 Digging around is an important, underrated part of research
Anisha	Yes, definitely. (:

MsCohen	oh, also, Anisha, the links are in the pdf of this chat I've posted below
MsCohen	This is another article I read recently that has a variety of views on the "flipped" classroom: http://chronicle.com/blogs/wiredcampus/debating-the-flipped-classroom-at-stanford/34811

WilleneDN	Hi all

Cayla	Hi Willene!
MsCohen	Hi Willene 😊
Jhanelle	I just wanted to make sure: The outline doesn't have to be included before the rough draft on turnitin.com, right?
Jhanelle	Hi, Willene and Cayla 😊
MsCohen	No, it doesn't. Just the rough draft and a works cited of what the citations in your rough draft refer to.
WilleneDN	Caylawayla! haha Hi Jhanelle 🤪
Jhanelle	^^ Thank you 😊 P.S. The smiles are very fun 😊
Cayla	Hey Jhanelle 😊
MsCohen	And bring a hard copy tomorrow of both your rough draft (and works cited) and the synthesis question your rough draft is in response to (if that's any different from what you brought in last week; if not, just bring the same question back)
MsCohen	I agree 🤔
WilleneDN	Moi aussi 🤔
MsCohen	I've posted copies of chats from today and yesterday below. You can check those out to see if anything we discussed might be helpful
Jhanelle	Okay. For each of those do we also bring the separate bibliographies?
	 mib_bfelpa joined #cohenli_test_channel
MsCohen	You don't need a works cited for your synthesis question because each source should have a citation.
Jhanelle	Okay, thanks 🤪
MsCohen	You should have a works cited included in your rough draft (these are the citations your parenthetical documentation is referring to)
MsCohen	Sure 😊

MsCohen	Hi mib_bfelpa. Ask away. And maybe tell us who you are mib_bfelpa	Totteanna: I asked you if How is this synthesis question: evaluate the most important facts on whether there is a link between football and brain damage was good question and yo said that Gladwell kinda of covers that, should i change then?

MsCohen	Yes. And hi, Totteanna 😊

MsCohen	That is, yes, you will have to ask a different question.
mib_bfelpa	Okay, thanks
MsCohen	sure thing 😊
mib_bfelpa	how about: knowing the consequences of playing football, evaluate whether football should be illegal or not.
MsCohen	Well, it is officially 3:01 by my clock, so I have to be going. But I'm glad ya'll dropped in. I will post a copy of this last part of the chat below. And you can continue to ask questions here.
MsCohen	Ah, Totteanna, sure, this is essentially the question Gladwell poses in the article--
Jhanelle	Bye and thank you^^
MsCohen	so if you have other sources that weigh in on this, that could be something. You just want to make sure you create your own argument (and don't just repeat/paraphrase/summarize others')
MsCohen	I stick around for a couple more minutes in case you have a follow-up question.
Cayla	Thanks for the help Ms. Cohen. Bye!
MsCohen	Sure, thanks for dropping by Cayla, good luck!
mib_bfelpa	🤪 so it's okay? Okay thanks ms. cohen!
MsCohen	sure 😊
